BREED THEATER.

Red Eagle's Love Affair, Indian Story.

The feature picture at the Breed theater for today is an Indian story of great merit, and pictorially is one of the gems of the season. It is entitled Red Eagle's Love Affair, and tells of a young Indian lad, who works on a ranch, being the only person other than white men to be employed there. The niece of the owner comes to make a visit, and it being round-up time, the white men are all out on the plains, and the only available escort is the Indian. He is a model young man, although filling a menial position, and the young niece is won by his manliness. She teaches him to read and write, and later he concludes to go to the Carlisle school. He becomes very compicuous there because of his physical attainments, and is the llon of the school. He makes a call on the niece while in town, but is turned down flatly before the many guests, and he returns to his old life, and little Indian sweetheart, Morning Bloom, who has been waiting with weary heart for the return of her boy lover. who has been waiting with weary heart for the return of her boy lover. A strong Biograph story is on the bill also, and two comedies, and another big dramatic feature.

Mr. Jack Morriss, baritone, will appear Monday as the sololst at the Breed, and as he is one of the most popular singers in the field, he is sure to please all.

NEW PERSONAL TAX. Features of New Law That Goes Into Effect Next October.

Beginning next October, one of the most troublesome duties of the tax collector, the collection of the military and poll taxes, will be abandoned, and the new state or personal tax will be promulgated instead. This will be a tax of $2, 85 per cent. of which will go to the state and 15 per cent. to the town, to pay the cost of collecting it. The making of the enrollment was formerly a duty of the assessors, but, under the new law, it must be made by the registrars, and it is safe to say that those gentlemen will not welcome the change.

that those gentlemen will not welcome the change.

As there are many persons who do not understand about this tax, it might be interesting to know that every male citizen between the ages of 21 and 70 is liable o pay a poll tax of 21. Unless a member of the fire department, militia or otherwise exempt, they are liable to a military tax of 32 between the ages of 21 and 45, and, when liable for this tax, do not have to pay the two taxes, or, in other words, the military tax includes the poll tax. When the man reaches the age of 45 and is not exempt from the military tax, he is then dropped from the tax and pays the 31 poll tax until 70 years of age. So, from the above, it will be seen that every man over 21 is liable to either one or both of these taxes and must, according to the law, pay the collector. There is a state law that calls for arrest and detention for the non-payment of these taxes.

As the collection of the military taxes.

As the collection of the military and poll taxes has been a source of much trouble throughout the state, the new law will be received with rejoicing by the different officials. But its going into effect in October does not mean that the taxes now due under the present law will not have to be paid.

Refuges from the Heat.

When Macaulay was in Rome in the summer time he used to take a walk in St. Peter's daily at noon. Gladctone, then a young man, found him there and learning it was a habit wanted to know why, expecting something profeund for a reply. "On account of the temperature," was the historian's disappointing answer. More is to be said for the churches of New York than the fact that they are cool in summer, but the fact is that they are cool—cooler than roof gardens, as cool as ceilars. The observer at the office window has often refreshed himself on a hot day by a moment's rest in Roman Catholic or Episcopsi churches, and has mantally blessed the dispensation which throws them open dally to the passerby.—The Office Window, in New York Mail. Refuges from the Heat.

And a Friendly Umpire. A boom is on at San Diego, Cal., to Spaulding, a former base-ball star, the successor of Frank P. Flint in the Untied States senate. All he needs is the fan vote.—Boston Transcript.

THE SETTING OF THE SUN.

The old rail fence reclines at case
With its years of duty done.
And a penceful song floats through the

With the setting of the sun. Light were the hearts that tramped the road.
Or sang in the meadow brown;
Warm was the hand that laid the dust.
Or scattered the thistles down;
Well were the tasks of men performed,
And well was the day begun,
That's why there is come the joy of rest.

With the setting of the sun. Ye who are lost in the city's throngs,
And the whirl of the city's life,
Ye who are faint with the toil of years
That has bowed you in the strife;
Pause as the days slip o'er its edge,
And let heart fancies run
Through the olden golden long ago
With the setting of the sun.

The bloom in the buds that were yours in youth,
And there runs the world away
To the spivan glades where eve has To the sylvan grades which crept crept.

And the twilight's haze is gray;
There comes the songs from the sephyr land
Where the smiles of hope are won,
And the youth that you knew comes back to you,
With the setting of the sun.
